Themes

The conference organisers invite submissions that focus on discourse analysis to address theoretical, methodological or empirical research issues in a variety of themes including, but not limited to:

Community and health

Education and learning

Finance and capital

Culture and identity

Marketing and consumption

Public policy and the state

Professions and institutions

Work, management and organisation

Gender and diversity

Globalisation and development

Ideology, power and knowledge

Media

Place, space and time

Practice and praxis

Language and communication

Science and technology

Conference options

There are three options for conference inclusion: presentations, workshops and symposia. Please see the appropriate guidelines below and make your submission by 25th July 2011.

Submission guidelines

Submissions are accepted on the basis that at least one presenter must register and attend the conference. Co-presenters are encouraged, but they must also be registered for the day of their presentation. If there are multiple presenters for one paper, it is important that the presentation time is strictly adhered to.

Presentations

Please submit an abstract which should be no more than 300 words in length and a maximum of four keywords. Each presentation will be allocated a 30 minute time slot, 20 minutes for presentation followed by 10 minutes for discussion.

Workshop

Conference workshops provide an opportunity to explore discourse analysis in a practical workshop mode. The number of workshop slots is limited. A 500 word abstract plus a reference list should be submitted for consideration. Workshops will only proceed if they attract a minimum of 10 participants. The time for each workshop is 90 minutes.

Symposium

A symposium is an integrated, interactive engagement between two or more presenters and the audience. The focus of the discussion should be a clearly identified theme that reflects an emerging issue in discourse studies. Participants will make individual or collaborative presentations linking their perspectives to the theme, with ample opportunity for discussion. A nominated person will moderate the discussion. Symposia should be designed to run for 90 minutes including at least 45 minutes for discussion. Proposals for symposia are to be presented in a 500 word abstract for the symposium as a whole and will be evaluated against the following criteria:

- the relationship of the topic to the conference focus on discourse analysis
- the range of expertise and/or points of view represented by the presenter(s)

Please submit abstracts by email before 25th July 2011 to nzdc@aut.ac.nz
Send your submission as a separate Word document and include in the body of the email, the title of the paper and the details of a contact author, phone and email address. Please specify if you would prefer your abstract to be considered for inclusion as a Presentation, Workshop or Symposium.

The submission should include the title of the paper/workshop/symposium, the name(s) and affiliation(s) of the author(s). APA referencing is to be used within all submissions.

Papers will be reviewed by the Programme Committee and authors will be notified of the outcome of their submission by 26th of August 2011.
