

GRADUATE PROFILE FOR THE BACHELOR OF COMPUTER AND INFORMATION SCIENCES

Graduates of the Bachelor of Computer and Information Sciences will be able to:

- a) critically evaluate information (Inquiry/Research/Creativity, Knowledge/Understanding)
- b) practice commitment to continuous learning (Personal/Intellectual Autonomy)
- c) demonstrate independent, critical, and reflective judgement (Personal/Intellectual Autonomy, Inquiry/Research/Creativity)
- d) communicate effectively, orally and in writing (Communication/Collaboration)
- e) employ effective project management skills (Application/Skills)
- f) demonstrate capabilities in information literacy and research (Inquiry/Research/Creativity)
- g) identify ethical issues and discuss the impact of IT on society (Ethical and Professional Dispositions)
- h) perform effectively as a group member and work well with people from other cultures, disciplines and backgrounds as well as to be sensitive to different approaches and beliefs (Communication/Collaboration, Ethical and Professional Dispositions)
- i) apply concepts and techniques in programming, networks, databases, and data modelling (Application/Skills, Knowledge/Understanding)